

Visit o local water bottling company

On 20th of December 2023, we visited a local water bottling company. When we arrived, the manager welcomed us and explained the procedure of water bottling from source to distribution.

The procedure begins with the sourcing of spring water from a location near the factory. Once collected the water undergoes filtration process.

Next, the purified water is directed to the bottling line. Here we watched the filling, capping and labelling of the bottles.

Once the bottles are filled, sealed and labeled they move to the packaging area.

I was very excited about the robotic systems used for bottling.

During our tour, the employee explained the steps to us in detail. He told us that the water source in the area has been there for many years.

He emphasized how crucial water quality control is during the filtration process.

We thanked the manager for the tour and the interesting information he provided.

We had a great time. Seeing the water bottling process and visiting the spring area was impressive. The organized bottling process and advanced machinery used left a great impression on us.
